Project Objective

Ian Martin Group is a family-owned, Canadian, progressive recruitment and project-staffing firm specializing in engineering and IT recruiting.

Ian Martin Group shifted to a new location, to create a work environment that provided floor-plate optimization and supported authentic connections around meaningful work. Each department's space was designed to speak to the company values and innovative beginnings.

Workplace Resource delivered on a reception area that showcased the brand, workstations that catered to the varying needs of each department, and collaboration spaces that enabled connectivity. Bright and airy the new space achieved their goals of providing employees an office they can be proud to work at.
