Project Objective

Jonah Group is a close-knit team of digital solutions experts who create custom enterprise software solutions for the financial services sector. Jonah wanted to revisit their office furniture layout to promote team cohesion and collaborative capacity.

With the help of Workplace Resources and ACA Design Studio Inc., they upgraded their office to a modern, professional and friendly space with a mix of seating arrangements from Herman Miller, designed to support and encourage a variety of work styles.

Personal credenzas and impromptu meeting spaces in the new layout facilitate casual and spontaneous collaborations. Ergonomic chairs and dual floating monitor arms allow people to personalize their workstations. And the addition of half-height divider screens and modesty panels (along with subtle orientation decisions) promote a distraction-free work environment whenever that is needed. The redesigned space has been a hit, driving rave reviews from employees and customers alike.
